A teenager's busy week

My name is Jake and I am fifteen years old. I live in a small town near Manchester. During the week, my days are usually very busy. I get up at 6:45 a.m. and take the bus to school at 7:30.

My favourite subjects are English and Geography because I like learning about different cultures and countries. I also enjoy ICT, but I don't like Maths very much. School finishes at 3:30 p.m.

After school, I often play football with my friends or go cycling. On Tuesdays, I have guitar lessons. On Fridays, I usually stay at home and watch a film with my family.

Like many teenagers, I use my smartphone every day. I send messages, listen to music and watch videos. However, my parents think I spend too much time online. They want me to switch off my phone while doing homework.

At weekends, I have more free time. I often meet friends in town, go shopping or watch football matches. Sometimes we organise trips to nearby cities. I like being active and spending time with other people.
